MIL ALGER'S FEAR.

An announcement comes from Wash ington which places Secretary of War Alger in a new role. He does not out-ject to the critism which has so been lavishty bestowed upon fan and the department over which he has pre-tended to preside. Oh, no! He fully realizes that the American people will understand the situation. His objection understand the situation. His oil client is based upon a higher and upon an entirely unselfish view of the matter. He fears that the bue and cry regarding the treatment of the volunteers will cause the people of foreign countries to regard the American soldier as tacking in soldierty qualities.

The Secretary should have advanced this theory before, and while it may strike the majority of people as being rather poor logic to expect the soldiers rather poor logic to expect the sodiers to die of starvation in the inidst of plenty, we have no doubt that the brave boys in blue and their friends would have kept quiet had they know there was danger of incurring advor-

Secretary Alger's unselfishness is to be commended, and his implicit trust in the intelligence of the American pea-ple will no doubt be vindicated. They will thoroughly understand, and when that understanding crytalizes into ac-tion there will be a ferrible day of reckning in store for some one. Who will it he?

It is said that the Mauser villsgo campaign will not be placed in the hands of the American soldiers. Ac-cording to officers in the service it would be a bid idea to have two kinds of rifles in the hands of the m.n. This is undoubtedly a common sense view of the matter. It is apparent that it is best to have all arms in the serv-les of the same pattern so that conice of the same pattern, so that in car of an emergency parts and ammunition would be interchangeable. Experience shows that the commissary and equipment bureaus cannot be depended upoto get any particular thing to the from in time. It is, therefore, the part of wisdom to have as little complexity in the supplies as possible.

to why supplies were allowed to not on board La Grande Duchesse while solders by starving to death, will scarce-ly result in any practical results. It will undoubtedly be shown that they were bound up in red tape rules adopted by the War Department as a mean of protecting the United States govern-ment against fraud. Like everything else that has gone wrong in handing the supplies, it will be found to be on of those remarkable cases in which no

General Joe Wheeler and Colone Theodore Hoosevel; seem to have re-solved themselves into a mutual admiration society. There are so many admirable traits of character apparent in both men, is were that few persons we field a lined to , institute.
